

Department or Unit: Marketing & Public Relations Academic Year: 2012-13

Lead Evaluator: Ann Hess Submission Due Date: April 3, 2013

Unit Mission: Northland Pioneer College's Marketing & Public Relations office develops and implements communication and marketing strategies to enhance the image of the college, promote public awareness of NPC's resources, and inform prospective and current students of the many opportunities for success at NPC. Our office consistently provides high-quality communications, timely service and responds to new trends and technologies while maintaining a consistent editorial and graphic identity.

Unit Goals & Objectives:

- 1. Assess effectiveness of design changes made to the home page of www.npc.edu since 5/2011
 - A. Compare data gathered in Google Analytics of home page link usage before and after redesign
 - B. Look at traffic of specific pages before and after homepage redesign to see if improved
- 2. Conduct a new student media survey in the spring 2012 semester
 - A. Compare results to the responses from the 2008 media survey
 - B. Update survey to reflect new methods of communication added since 2008
- 3. Assess student impression of the online class schedule search engine and the printed class schedule
 - A. Setup a user survey on the class schedule search engine webpage during fall and spring registration periods
 - B. Conduct a small user survey of the printed class schedule

Evaluation Team Members: Ann Hess, Everett Robinson, JoAnn Barnes-Slocum, Rose Kreher

Executive Summary of Results

Evaluation 1: Assess the new changes made to the NPC public website, www.npc.edu, in June 2011.

1. HOME PAGE CHANGES: (see attachment A)

A. New Large Banner Images

a. Added a "read more" button to each of the banner images, which takes the viewer to a webpage covering the banner subject. Large banners display messages about financial aid and scholarships, direct to work programs, scholarship search, transfer degrees, online classes, non-credit classes, GED, NPC's Facebook page and student email.

The Marketing Office worked with an outside vender, ImageX Media, to improve the functionality of the large rotating banner on the NPC homepage by adding clickable buttons that takes the viewer to a webpage that covers the subject of the banner. The subject pages already existed on the website but the banner images did not have links to them. Google Analytics was used to look at a snapshot of the traffic to these pages before and after the redesign.

The table below shows a snap shot of traffic to each specific webpage from Aug. 1 through Aug. 30 of that year using Google Analytics (GA). Traffic to the NPC website is high during that month because of fall registration. The page number column shows where that page falls in the over all traffic on the NPC website for that time period. The lower the "page #" the more views the page got during that time. The top ranked page on the website is always the homepage.

2010 – NO LINK			2011 – ADDED LINK		2012 WITH LINK
NPC Homepage	1	34,124	1	60,624	1	54,323
AAS Degree	16	1,115	19	1,120	21	997
Scholarship Search	37	494	25	966	16	1097
Transfer Degrees	66	235	84	203	52	305
Noncredit classes	31	628	89	195	64	266
GED	68	230	83	205	70	256

^{*}Could not obtain Google Analytics data for Facebook or student email.

RESULTS: Based on the numbers provided in Google Analytics it appears that adding the links improved the traffic to each page. In most cases (exceptions: AAS Degree, Noncredit Classes, GED links) the ranking of the page within the NPC website and the page hits improved significantly. The GED page hits stayed about the same in 2011 but improved in 2012. The AAS page has remained relatively steady through time although the page has moved down in total number of hits on the entire site. I would attribute this to shift in enrollment over time. The Noncredit Classes link is the only one that did not respond to having a link added to the banner image and lost significant ground in both page hits and rank within the site. It has made a bit of a recovery from 2011 to 2012 but does not get nearly the traffic it did in 2010. I am unsure as to why that is but do not feel it is due to the addition of the button on the banner.

CONCLUSION: Over all the addition of the clickable button to the banner images had a positive impact on the website and user experience. Marketing will continue to use banners with clickable buttons on the website.

B. New Right Column Links

- a. In an effort to improve the usability of the NPC homepage changes were made to the far right column layout based on data recorded in Google Analytics on the most viewed pages at www.npc.edu in 2010. Some links were moved to another location on the home page or dropped entirely if they were not receiving a higher number of page views.
 - After reviewing the data in Google Analytics (GA), the NPC Marketing Office contracted with ImageX Media to help reorganized and redesign the homepage layout. The changes that were made are as follows:
 - Class Schedule Search was given more prominence and weight as the top clickable button in the far right column based on its consistent ranking of the second most viewed page on the site.
 - The link to the college catalog was added right under the class schedule because it was ranked #15 in page views and closely related to the class schedule. Previously it was located under "Quick Links" at the bottom of the right hand column.
 - The link to the NPC enrollment form was made more prominent as the second largest button in the right hand column based on this being one of NPC's top goals getting students to enroll. Previously it was the second link in the right column but had equal weight with other links around it.

- The link to the MyNPC website was moved up into the very top right of the homepage in the blue bar. GA does not collect data on this link since it is external to www.npc.edu. This change was made because sending students to MyNPC is not a priority of the main website and an informal verbal student survey suggested they were not using or aware of the link.
- The AskNPC button was added to address student questions during non business hours and to help students find answers to questions more easily. Answers on the AskNPC database help direct students to pages on www.npc.edu where more detailed information is available. This block replaced the "live chat" button with an academic adviser.
- The "how to contact an academic adviser" block was added to encourage students to speak with an NPC adviser. Since live chat was removed from the site (could not get enough advisers to man it consistently), the Marketing Office felt it was still important to create an easy link to the page containing adviser contact information. The change reflects an overall college goal to encourage all students to speak with an adviser.
- The "information for" section was dropped completely because none of the items in that box were in the top page views in GA or a current priority of the college.
- The "Quick Links" block was a repeat of the pull down "Quick Links" menu at the top right of the home page. Subjects that had high rankings in GA such as Financial Aid, program and degree information and the library were moved over to the far left column and given more prominent links.

The table below shows a snap shot of traffic to each specific webpage link in the far right column from June 1 to Dec. 31 each year using Google Analytics. The page number column shows where that page fell in the over all traffic on the NPC website for that time period. The lower the "page #" the more views the page got during that time. The top ranked page on the website is always the homepage.

Dual Enrollment	56	1,307	122	642	152	413

^{*}Could not obtain Google Analytics data for MyNPC link or AskNPC.

RESULTS: Based on the numbers provided in Google Analytics it appears that changing and moving the links on the far right column of the home page had a positive impact on site traffic. Every page showed a marked improvement in page views and an improvement in overall page ranking on the site as a whole. The "class schedule search" as well as the "programs/degrees" pages stayed consistent at the second and third most viewed pages, which is very positive. Both the college catalog and academic adviser pages showed marked improvement in page ranking site wide. Only the enrollment form and the library pages decreased in page views, which I believe is due to lower enrollment over time.

CONCLUSION: The changes made to the right column of the homepage were positive and resulted in increased page views and an improved user experience. The Marketing Office will stay informed about website page views and make adjustments accordingly to improve usability. Updates to the homepage should be made about every two years.

C. Small Rotating Event Banner

The single banner ad on the far right column of the home page was changed to a multi-image rotating banner. This change allowed for more information to be presented to users. The table below shows a snap shot of traffic to each page linked to in the small banner from June 1 to Dec. 31 each year using Google Analytics. The page number column shows where that page fell in the over all traffic on the NPC website for that time period. The lower the "page #" the more views the page got during that time. The top ranked page on the website is always the homepage.

2010			20:	11	2012

VA Benefits	222	233	184	392	174	389

^{*}Sampling of only some of the banners run.

RESULTS: Based on the numbers provided in Google Analytics it appears that changing the small banner image to a multi-image rotating banner had a positive effect on the number of page views received with the exception of Dual Enrollment which lost 32% of it's views.

CONCLUSION: The change of making the single banner image into a multi-image rotating banner was a positive gain for the home page and the website. In all cases except for Dual Enrollment, page views increased. I think the changes we made to the Dual Enrollment process from 2010 to 2011 had a significant impact on the number of page views. It does not seem to be as important of a page in 2012 as it was in 2010. Marketing will monitor the Dual Enrollment's page and make changes if that area is indicated to be of greater importance in the future.

D. Bottom Blue Box With New Links

a. The blue box at the bottom of the homepage was a new feature added with the redesign of the website. It did not exist on the site before June 2011, there for there is not data available in Google Analytics before then. The table below shows the most used links in that area with a comparison of click rate on those links in June 2011 and again June 2012. It should be noted that all the links used in the bottom blue box make up less than 1% of all the clicks on the home page according to GA. With the current layout, GA shows that less than 1% of the links are used below the link "NPC Transcript" link in the far left column of the homepage.

Link	June 2011	June 2012

eCashier Payment Plan	76	138
Scholarship Search Engine	64	114
Student Resources	71	130
Academic Advising	68	102

^{*}Comparison of only the top clicked links

RESULTS: Based on the numbers provided in Google Analytics it appears that this addition to the home page has had little to no positive effect on helping users find the information they are looking for. This style of listing links is common on merchant sites such as Amazon and in our case was an attempt to give users an easier way to find the information they were looking for.

CONCLUSION: Most users do not scroll down past what they can initially see on their screen. Based on the user numbers it would appear that the blue box of links gets little use, possibly because most do not know it is there. Because of this it is not occupying real estate that would be better used in another way. Marketing will not spend any additional funds to improve or alter this section but we do not see the need to remove it either since it is used.

- E. Comparison of traffic links on new website layout to old traffic numbers in Google Analytics. (Increase in link clicks indicates improved usability.)
 - a. Comparison data and conclusion provided above data and conclusions.

2. RIGHT SIDE BLOCKS THAT APPEAR ON MULTIPLE PAGES:

- A. Compare amount of traffic in right side bar to historical traffic data
 - Right side bar now appears on most pages of the website, not just on the homepage. This has increased the visibility of all the items significantly allowing students to easily find the current class schedule, fill out an enrollment form, get questions answered or contact an adviser.
 - Comparison data and conclusions provided under 1B.
- B. Find out where viewers are coming from to the pages that the right side bar links go to (Class schedule search, College Catalog, Enrollment Form, Live Chat, Rec/Reg page, Payment page, Technical Support, Admissions)
 - According to Google Analytics the majority of the traffic for all of these pages comes through the homepage. (Live Chat has been replaced by AskNPC)

3. BOTTOM LINKS IN BLUE BOX:

- A. Track how many hits on pages come from the links listed on the blue box at the bottom
 - a. See data and conclusion above under 1D.
- B. How much use the "course search" is getting from the bottom blue box
 - a. Could not collect this data because GA did not track. Given the use of all the items in the blue box is less than 1% of the total homepage site use, the data suggests it is getting used little to none.

4. HOMEPAGE ROTATING BANNER UPDATE:

- A. Track number of hits on pages banner images refer to
 - a. See data and conclusion above in 1A.

EVALUATION 2: Assess the Class Schedule usability

- 1. Redesign the front explanation and rules section of the PRINT schedule to reflect a more user friendly system and consolidation of information.
 - A. Conduct student user survey to see if changes are effective at 4 campus locations. (see attachment B)
 - a. Class schedule student user survey was conducted in February 2013. Results are shown in attachment

RESULTS: The print class schedule survey showed that:

- a. About 72% of students still use the print schedule at least sometimes
- b. 82% were aware that the most up-to-date information is available online and 28% used the online version only
- c. 59% used it to find classes or important dates, 12% to learn how to register, 11% on how to order books, 9% for financial aid information and 9% for tuition rates
- d. 88% said they could find what they were looking for
- e. 63% said the cover image was interesting but many didn't know there was a story on the inside cover
- f. 76% said the size of the schedule was comfortable
- g. 76% knew what the symbol "R" represented in the listings
- h. 52% said they did not read the first informational pages at the front.

CONCLUSION: The print class schedule is fairly user friendly in layout, image and size. The front cover image is inviting but only interesting to those who are interested in the subject covered in the photo. Almost no one knew there was a story about the cover photo on the inside and of those that did most didn't read it. Most only read the class listings and the important dates. The front page information about financial aid, how to register, order books and so on was only read once and then not again in future issues.

Over all the class schedule is user friendly and meets the purposes it was designed for. Spending time writing a story about the cover seems to not be beneficial as most do not read it. Marketing has added a note on the front to see the inside page story that may help reader rates. The high rate of 82% of students who are aware of the online class schedule is a positive result for when the college is ready to move to a limited version class schedule brochure. A full and easy registration process must be available online before that change is made.

- 2. Conduct a user survey to see if online class schedule search is usable in its current state.
 - A. Use survey software on public website class schedule search engine page to gather results (see attachment C)

RESULTS: The online class schedule survey ran from May through December 2011. 1039 responses were collected from www.npc.edu/class-schedule.

- 61% said "yes" they would use online search again, 32% said no, 7% did not answer
- Of all responses: 54% used the "Browse by Department" option, 17% use the "Advanced Search" option, 29% N/A
- Of the 32% who said they would NOT use the search again 34% of those used the "Advanced Search" and 66% used the "Browse by Department" option
- Did the user find what they wanted? 28% said yes I found it right away, 21% said they got no results, 14% said yes but had to search more than once, 11% only answered yes, 10% only answered no, 9% said NPC was not offering what they wanted, 7% did not answer
- Of the 72% who responded to whether or not they were able to get search results: 58% answered yes, 42% said no
- Of the 9% who said NPC was not offering what they needed: 52% said they won't use the search again, 48% will

CONCLUSION: More than half of those who used the online class schedule search said they would use it again. The "Browse by Department" option is most used and easiest to use with less options to choose from. Of those who said they would not use the search again, it was a surprise to see that the use of the advanced search was not a determining factor. Almost 60% of respondents were able to get results but if and when NPC decides to get rid of the print schedule this number should be closer to 80% to ensure success. A more user-friendly interface is recommended for the advanced search because there are so many options to choose from and can dramatically affect results. Marketing's preference would be to eliminate the advanced search and only use the browse by department option unless a major redesign is done.

EVALUATION 3: Assess the most effective method of communicating with current students

- 1. Conduct media survey in Spring of 2012 at all 9 locations (see attachment D)
 - A. Look at radio, TV, e-mail, cell phone, newsprint, Facebook, website, mailings, posters, campus info monitors etc.

The NPC Marketing Office conducted a media survey in March of 2012. 794 students were surveyed via paper form from all nine NPC locations. Age ranges and location samples closely reflect the current makeup of the college.

RESULTS: Notable results from the survey were: (see attachment D for full results)

- 1. Most students receive new information from television or the Internet
- 2. 60% of respondents read the newspaper
- 3. More students watch satellite TV than cable TV
- 4. 87% of respondents listen to the radio, of those 84% listen to FM radio
- 5. 36% of respondents go to the movie theatre every couple of months
- 6. 95% of respondents own a cell phone, 88% use text messages, 51% can browse the Internet on their cell phone
- 7. 85% of respondents have access to a computer other than at NPC
- 8. 84% of respondents have access to the Internet other than at NPC, with 61% accessing the Internet at home
- 9. 71% of respondents used the Internet daily
- 10. Top items students are interested in on the Internet (in order): social networks, education, news, shopping
- 11. More than half of the students surveyed used the MyNPC website and or www.npc.edu
- 12. Only about 8% of respondents use the NPC Facebook account
- 13. 68% of students surveyed said they prefer to register in person, 28% online, 4% by phone
- 14. 79% of respondents knew about the online class schedule, 56% had used it
- 15. 82% of respondents knew they had a student email account but only 56% had used it
- 16. 42% first heard about NPC from a friend or relative who attended NPC, 27% saw the campus when driving by, 21% learned about NPC from a high school teacher or counselor
- 17. Students prefer to get important non-emergency information from NPC via (in order from most to least): NPC websites, NPC email, Text message, postal mail, social media
- 18. Students prefer to get emergency information from NPC via (in order from most to least): Text message, Voice message, NPC websites, NPC email, Radio, Social media
- 19. 84% of respondents said they read the posters/fliers on their campus or center
- 20. 35% of campus respondents said they had seen/read the NPC student information electronic monitors

- 21. 53% of respondents said they read the "Eagle Briefs" newsletter in the bathrooms
- 22. 89% of respondents knew about the NPC logo items for sale on their campus/center, 24% had purchased an item, 42% said they were planning to purchase an item

CONCLUSIONS:

- Most NPC students are using the Internet and are ready to rely more heavily on it to acquire information about NPC. Due to our remote location we will always have a small number who will not be electronically able.
- Newspaper readership is lower than radio listenership so the Marketing Office should put a large portion of resources toward radio advertising rather than print.
- Text messaging seems to be a good option to send information to students and they are receptive to it. Marketing needs to be able to get segmented cell phone lists to effectively use this method of communication. These are not currently available.
- Students are interested in social media but don't currently see the benefit to NPC's social media sites. More time needs to be spent on posting student relevant information to Facebook so that the sites value will increase. Currently the Marketing Office does not have enough in-house staff to make a significant difference. The Marketing Office will look to outside sources to assist with this effort.
- Students are very aware of the online class schedule search engine but most will not use it until they have to.
- Most students learn about NPC via "word of mouth" and specifically from community members who attended or worked at NPC. For our service area it is our most valuable marketing outlet we have. Greater focus needs to be paid to this fact throughout the college and a focus on customer service made a priority from the executive level.
- Many respondents said they read the campus/center posters but anecdotal evidence suggests they do not absorb the details.
 Marketing will begin looking at using student email as a preferred method of communication over campus/center posters. This would save the college both time and money. Attention needs to be paid to informing students that vital information comes to them via their student email account and it is important they check it.
- The NPC student information monitors (which are only at campus locations) are seen but may need to increase in number or moved in location to become more effective. Power and Internet access locations have limited the placement options. A cost benefit analysis needs to be done to see if this method of communication is worth expanding.
- That almost one quarter of the survey respondents had bought a NPC logo item(s) is very positive. Even more significant was that almost half were considering purchases. These items are important in enhancing the college's ability to increase visibility in our service areas.

B_Class Schedule Print Survey Results.pdf
C_OnlineClassScheduleSearchSurvey.pdf
D_Media Survey12.pdf
Recommendations for Action with Approximate Timelines:
Timeline for all items is Aug. 2013.
1. Closely examine Marketing budget expenditures in newspaper and radio to reasses	ss how money is allocated and spent.
2. Create a marketing strategy to convince students that reading their student email i	s important.
3. Look into contracting with an bulk email service to start moving the Marketing Offi	ce away from printing posters/fliers and transition to sending those messages to students via their student email account.
Itemized Resource Requests with Budget Amounts (if any):
1. Request an increase in the Marketing contractual services budget of $20,000 for fis	scal year 2013-14, to employ outside contractor to assist with posting to NPC Facebook sites.
